1. In this case you may hear that one of the Defendant's is a well-known musician. Would all members of the panel treat this witness just like any other witness and judge his credibility in accordance with the law as the Court instructs?

2. This case involves an alleged fraud scheme where victims have suffered significant financial losses. Have any of you suffered financial losses as a result of falling victim to what you believed to be a fraud scheme? If so, under what circumstances?

3. Do any members of the panel hold any philosophical or religious beliefs which would make it difficult or impossible to sit in judgment of another human being?

4. Just as the defendant is entitled to a fair trial, so is the United States. Do any of you, because of something in your background or beliefs, or from something you heard on TV or radio or saw in the newspapers, feel that you cannot give the United States the same fair trial in this type of criminal case that you will give the defendant?

5. This case was investigated by agents of the United States Secret Service and Detectives with the Broward Sheriff's Office. Has any member of the prospective jury, a close friend or family member, to the best of your knowledge, had any experience with these or any other law enforcement or government agencies which would cause you to be unable to render a fair and impartial verdict? Could you accept the testimony of the agents testifying in this case in the same way that you would the testimony of a private citizen?
